

WORKSHEET 3: Tourist Information

Part 2 of At the Hotel Reception deals with tourist information and attractions in Oslo. Before you listen to the text, discuss the following with your group:

- Why are some attractions considered main attractions?
- Since the English settlement of America only started in the early 1600s, the Americans don't have many centuries of history of their own. How might this be reflected in what they choose to see when they go abroad?
- How should an attraction be presented to make it attractive?

Listen to Part 2 of the recording (track 15):

When you have listened to the text, discuss the following in your group:

- What type of tourist information is given to the guests?
- If you were the hotel receptionist, what other information would you have included?
