

Character Table 2

How do the different characters in the film react to/deal with the norms of society at that time? Such as racism, social etiquettes, generational differences and gender roles

How does society influence the development of their personalities? Do some of the characters move from one column to another during the film?

They do not like the society but manage to be independent/free in their minds/go their own way	They are partly bound by society and partly independent in their thinking	They find that society is just fine/OK/they think the same as "the rest" and are satisfied with how society is.	They are bound by society and destroyed as individuals, but are unaware of this.	They are destroyed as individuals and do not cope with society as it is (gone crazy, alcoholic problems etc.)